

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The invention provides isolated polypeptide and nucleic acid sequences derived from Candida albicans that are useful in diagnosis and therapy of pathological conditions; antibodies against the polypeptides; and methods for the 5 production of the polypeptides. The invention also provides methods for the detection, prevention and treatment of pathological conditions resulting from fungal infection.